Shanya stares at the overturned basket, not with fear but curiosity. She peered at the trapped, scaly reptile, carefully avoiding making eye contact. The captivated reptile hissed with fury and lunged at Shanya. Shanya backed away and her dark brown eyes widened with astonishment. It was the most venomous snake in the world, the inland taipan.

Shanya took a deep breath and her hands grasped the furthest corner away from the snake. “It’s horrible to just leave it like this” she thought. After a few moments she counted to two and then flung the basket off the inland taipan, who lifted it’s head with surprise. “There you go” she said kindly.

Shanya screams with horror and fright. She had heard stories about the snake that could kill a hundred men with just a drop of its venom. She runs back inside and cried to her mother. Her mother quickly dialed up the snake killers and soon the snake was captured and killed viciously. Shanya hugged her mother with relief and she vowed that she would never go outside without a grown up again.

The End

The snake stares at Shanya and the world froze. It was all eerie until.... the snake shook out of its trance and threw itself at Shanya. Shanya shrieked with fright and suddenly fiery pain burst along her thigh. Shanya collapsed with agony and her mother came running. "What is it....." her mother trailed off. Then she screamed with terror and rushed to Shanya's side. "I love you Mum" Shanya whispered, struggling. "Shush" hushed her mother. "Tell everyone I love them" Shanya said, tears streaming down her face. Suddenly, Shanya fell limp and tears poured out of her mother's eyes like a waterfall as she reached for her phone and dialed for her husband.

The snake gazes at Shanya with what she felt like gratitude. “You’re welcome” she said carefully. “Of all the humans I’ve met” the snake said quietly “You’re are by far the best.” Then it slithered off into the distance while Shanya stood there numb from shock.

Shanya blinks with shock and just stood there mindblown. She had a quick glance around but nobody was there. “What just happened” she murmured to herself. A sudden thought occurred in her mind. “Impossible” she mumbled, not believing the thought. Shanya decided to test it out. She saw a tiny ant gathering food and leaned down to look at it. The ant dropped what it was carrying and threw its arms around her. Don’t hurt me it said feebly. Shanya gasps and runs inside to call her best friend, Lili.

She pauses. Maybe she should wait till she has more info on the strange power. Yes, that's what she's going to do. For now she was going to play with her new favourite power! "Hehe" Shanya giggled as she ran towards the back door. She slid it open and at once the wind picked up her hair and played with it. The grass tickled her feet and the earth was as squishy as ever. Wind, birds, animals and raindrops, they are all the musical and natural sounds of Mother Nature. "Now, I can hear what words the animals might be singing" Shanya thought excitedly.

She calls her friend and tells her about the happenings. “What?” Lili exclaimed “I don’t believe you!”. “But it’s true!” Shanya cried. But Lili hit the end call button and stormed away, angry and hurt. Shanya stares at the phone, heartbroken thinking that she had just lost her best friend.

The next day when Shanya went to school she overheard screaming coming from the yard. She ran to find out what was making the noise. Soon she found where the loud noise was coming from and to her shock it was Lili with a large spider crawling up on her. Shanya spoke to it. “Go away!” she cried, knowing Lili’s fear for spiders. The spider scattered off into the crowd.

There is silence and staring. Shanya's face was getting hot and sweaty with embarrassment. Nobody spoke. Shanya glanced at Lili and Lili was also one of the ones that were staring at Shanya as though she had plants sprouting on her head. Shanya gave her a weak smile and prepared to flee.

Fortunately for Shanya nobody noticed the strange coincidences. Shanya enjoyed a happy day knowing that Lili was no longer angry at her but claiming that Shanya was just imagining things. Shanya forgot all about the incident on the phone but when she remembered, she apologised.

Lili yells loudly and a teacher came by. “What is it my dear?” she asked sympathetically “But quickly love, I don’t have all day”. Lili explained to the teacher, shooting fierce looks at Shanya. Unfortunately for Shanya as you can already see this teacher loves Lili and would believe anything she says. So when Lili finally finished explaining to the teacher, whose name was Miss Crow, she peered at Shanya suspiciously. “Well, then Lili” Miss Crow said primly. “Thank you for alerting me about these strange happenings”. She cast a look at Shanya and continued “And as for you, whatever your name is” pointing to Shanya, “Is having a detention this afternoon” Everyone practically looked smug which made Shanya boil with rage. But she kept her cool. “Cool as a cucumber” she thought. Lili poked her tongue out at her and Shanya nearly exploded. The day passed by and Shanya was glad when it was night.

Suddenly Lili broke the silence. “It’s probably just a coincidence” she said, shrugging. Lili smiled at Shanya but Shanya could clearly see that she was shaken. “Seriously?” a voice from the crowd cried. The owner stepped out and faced Lili. It was Lili’s old BFF, Bess. “Yes” Lili snapped at her, realizing who she was. Bess grinned showing her yellow, grimy teeth and Shanya took a step forward. “Leave her alone Bess” she said quietly. “What?” asked Bess, her eyes sparkling with danger. “Speak louder you nasty little wretch!” Shanya said nothing. Bess smiled wickedly and turned to Lili, ready to torture her when..... Shanya spoke up. “I said”, she said softly and dangerously “LEAVE, HER , ALONE!” Her voice rose to a yell and she took another step in. Bess backed up and looked around wildly. She stopped. “Well, well, well” she said maliciously “Yelling at me are you?”. She sounded a bit frightened but angry still. “Yes” Shanya whispered determinedly. “Go right now”. She stared at Bess who began to look uncomfortable. “Fine” she said arrogantly. “But you haven't seen the last of me!” she said running off. “Thanks so much Shanya” Lili said, smiling gratefully. Shanya grinned and together they made their way to the classroom.

Lili and Shanya laugh on their way to their classroom. All of a sudden Lili pulls Shanya into a narrow pathway and leads her behind a garbage bin. She sits down and beckons Shanya to do the same. When Shanya was seated Lili began firing questions one by one. “Are you feeling alright?” she asked concernedly. Shanya nodded appreciatively. Lili’s next question was, “Are you actually Shanya or someone in disguise?”. Shanya scoffed and said “I’m Shanya!”. Lili stared at her and pondered about the last question. “Last question, I swear” she said. Shanya once again nodded her head. “How in the world did you do that?” Lili questioned.

Shanya felt like the world was spinning. She nearly collapsed but managed not to. “Shanya!” Lili cried “Do you want to be late for class?” Shanya shook her head reasonably. “As you said before, it must be a coincidence” Shanya lied “I didn’t do it intentionally, I promise”. Lili snorted. “It’s obvious that you wouldn’t lie” she said. “You wouldn’t even lie to a fly!” But how wrong was she about that? Then they ran to their classroom, arriving just in time before their teacher came to open the door.

After school finishes, Shanya is quivering with excitement. Today was the last day of school and now she is going to go to the Arctic for the holidays! Shanya rushes home, gathers her family and baggage and finally they head to the airport. Once they get there, they have some food and then go to hop on the plane. “Yes?” a lady behind the counter asks, peering over her glasses. “Where is the line for the plane that is going to the Arctic?” questioned Shanya’s father.

Lili drags Shanya to a corner and asks how she controlled the spider. “I realized that I could talk to animals and plants and could also listen to their thoughts” Shanya cried, looking at Lili’s face to see her reaction. Lili stared at her. “Didn’t we have this conversation on the phone?” Lili asked. “I think we did and I said I don’t believe you!”. “B-b-but i-i-it’s t-t-t-t-true” Shanya spluttered helplessly. Lili glared at her and walked off. “Oh and just a reminder Shanya” Lili called menacingly behind her shoulder “Don’t talk to me ever again, or else...” Then Shanya’s BFF left her forever, making Shanya feel more and more lonely than ever.

“The Arctic plane?” exclaimed the lady, bewildered. “Yes” Shanya’s father said tiredly. “Stop wasting my time” spat the lady angrily “There’s no Arctic plane here” “But-” Shanya’s father and mother interrupted. “GO NOW!” shouted the lady and she glowered at them furiously. “Oh, we must have made a mistake then” Shanya said politely “We are very sorry for wasting your time”. Then Shanya dragged everyone to the car. “I must have made a mistake then” Shanya’s mother said angrily “I’m very sorry but maybe next year”. She glared at the lady behind the counter and stuck her tongue out. Shanya pushed her into the car and was grateful no one had spotted her annoyed mother doing it. Then they went home and wept, dreading the next day.

“You are just in time!” the lady exclaimed “Quick go join that line”. Shanya and her family raced to the line and waited patiently for the plane. Well, the parents waited patiently, not the kids. At last they boarded the plane. Shanya shrieked with delight and ran to their isle. Shanya at once slid into the window seat and gazed down at the tiny people below her. The plane started off and Shanya screamed with happiness. “We’re off!” she cried gleefully “Goodbye Australia, see you soon!” Soon they were flying off, heading for the Arctic.

“We’re here!” Shanya yelled with excitement. Her little sister jumped with glee. They ran out of the plane, ate some food and zipped to their cottage. “Alright girls” her mother announced “Put your snow outfits on and then we’ll go skiing!” The sisters could hardly retain their excitement and delight. “YAY” shouted the siblings as they ran to put their clothes on. Soon Shanya and her mother went skiing and Shanya’s little sister and her dad went tobogganing. Shanya enjoyed herself thoroughly until she skied on the wrong path. Shanya tumbled down the snowy hills and came to a stop. Shanya looked up and realized..... she was lost.

Shanya got up cautiously. “Maybe I should walk” Shanya murmured “Or I could stay here.” Shanya decided to walk and she carefully jogged on the slick, white snow. She walks and walks until she feels like she can’t walk any further. But she kept trying, strong and determined. Suddenly, Shanya gasped. Hiding in the snow was the most majestic and beautiful animal she had ever seen. It was like nothing she had ever imagined.

Shanya yelled and yelled for her mother but no one came. But she stayed where she was. “If I wander about, I might get even more lost” she whispered to herself, shivering. The thought of being more lost was terrifying. “HELP!” she screamed with the last of her voice. Just when she thought all was lost she heard a crack. Shanya looked up, alerted and scared. The pressure eased at once when she heard voices. Worried ones. “Where is she?” a loud voice cried. Shanya recognised it and called loudly, which took all her strength. Her mother sped through the snow towards her and embraced her. “I’m never going to leave you out of my sight again!” Shanya happily reunited with her family and had a wonderful Arctic trip!

The End!

It's a snow white, rare, powerful Arctic fox that had the power to camouflage and spit out venom. She takes a step towards it, and the snow crunches. The Arctic fox whipped around and saw Shanya. Shanya met its eyes and felt amazed. The fox's eyes were a brilliant shade of honey brown and Shanya fell in love with it immediately. It's fur was the whitest thing she had ever seen and he was soooooo cute!

The arctic fox whimpered and then turned away, looking into the distance. Shanya wanted to take another step but she didn't. She thought she might be too close to the majestic fox and it would get frightened and run away. She felt safe and magical when she was close.

There in the bushes, a hunter aimed his shiny killer gun at her favourite animal who was curled up in a little ball. Shanya quivered with rage and anger. How DARE he!! Shanya tried to stay put but the temptation was too hard to pull back. Shanya burst through the bushes and screamed at the hunter. The hunter lifted his head in surprise, saw that it was a young girl and then continued his aiming. When he had got it into the right position he looked up and saw Shanya facing him. Angrily, he pretended that he was going to shoot her and Shanya leaped out of the way of harm. The hunter laughed evilly and shot at the arctic fox, who was going to leave the world with its life.

Shanya glances at what the arctic fox is looking at and stumbles back with shock and horror. What she saw was horrible. There was a hunter aiming his gun at the fox Shanya had been admiring. Shanya looked at what the arctic fox was thinking. “I, Snow is about to die and fail the test” Snow thought disappointedly. Shanya shook herself out of the horror trance. “What should I do?” she muttered to herself.

Shanya took a cautious step towards it and the fox swivelled around. It stared at her legs like it would step on him. The arctic fox then scampered off, away from Shanya. Shanya felt very ashamed for scaring the poor fox like that. She vowed that she would never do it again.

Shanya feels the world falling and she crumples to the floor. “Got to stop the huntsman” Shanya says, gritting her teeth. She tries to get up, but it's no use. “I’m the one who failed” Shanya whispered to herself. And then she passed out.

The End!

Snow fell to the ground and didn't move again. Shanya screamed with anger. She was burning with rage and disgust. All of a sudden, warmth and power swept through every part of her body and she felt stronger and less afraid than she was before.

Choice 2

Shanya takes a step forward and the hunter takes one too but towards Snow. The hunter feels someone watching him and whips around to find Shanya staring wildly at him. “What?” he said in gruff, rough voice. Shanya shakes herself and keeps staring intensely at him. The hunter is starting to look uncomfortable like Bess did. “I would like to say something to you” Shanya announced, loud and clear. The hunter made a gesture to go on and he bent down to pick up the Snow’s dead and limp body. “Don't you DARE touch him” shrilled Shanya. The hunter turned to her and she quickly added “Yet. I want to tell you something first.” The hunter gave a sigh that Shanya found irritable but chose not to show it. “Don’t kill animals” she said calmly. The hunter sneered at her and said “Why would I do that?” “Because-” Shanya tried to explain. The hunter cut her off. “Ha ha” he chuckled. “Go back to your mummy.” Shanya was now 99% ready to explode. “CRAZY!” she yelled furiously at the surly hunter.

Shanya glowered madly, her fists clenched, her legs tense and her mind whirling. How could he KILL her favourite animal? She walked up to him, jumped up and suddenly a dagger was in her hand. The hunter saw the dagger and fell unconscious, slumping to the floor. Shanya then did some work with the dagger and once she was finished, she felt guilty and satisfied. Blood draped her hand a ruby red liquid, that was dripping down, onto the snow. Shanya saw her reflection on the dagger and tossed it away. The blood stained dagger landed on the snow, and the snow absorbed the blood, making red snow.

The End!

The hunter shakes all over with fury. He gets his gun and takes aim. Then he hits the trigger. Shanya shuts her eyes with fear and throws her arms in front of her. Suddenly Shanya scrunches her eyes and concentrates hard. “I can do this” she thought determinedly. The bullet races to meet her at the speed of a cheetah. Shanya sends a silent message to her parents and little sister. She smiles at the thought of them. Then Shanya got prepared to meet her fate.

Snowflakes start falling gently and one lands on Shanya's heart. Shanya does not move or speak. She is gone forever. The hunter laughs maliciously and power sweeps into his bones. "Time to rule the world" he cried, chuckling wickedly.

The End!

The hunter gawks in amazement and Shanya opens her eyes. To her shock, she's still alive! Shanya grinned, quietly saying thank you to her parents and her little sister for wishing her to stay alive. The hunter stares at her and for several seconds Shanya was afraid that he might go mad.

The hunter falls to his knees and starts worshipping and acknowledging Shanya. Her face shone with pleasure and she looked like the sun. The hunter looked up at the pretty, young girl and decided, even if she was young, she still could make a big difference. “Cause this girl” he thought, “Shines bright even though it might be dark or she’s afraid. She doesn’t hide away or disappear from the dark like the sun does when it’s night.”

“No” the hunter disagreed. “What?” Shanya said, clearly rattled. “I like my job” he replied smoothly. “You’re lying” Shanya cried. “Am not” said the hunter calmly. “How?” Shanya cried and she ran away from the hunter.

The End!

“Yes, I agree” said the changed hunter, heartily. “I used to say no but now I say yes” Shanya smiled gently and the hunter gave his best grin back. It was a little odd looking because he wasn’t used to smiling.

Shanya suddenly remembers Snow. She looks for him and finds him lying on the ground. There's a wound in his chest. Shanya's heart goes cold and she cradles Snow in her arms, weeping quietly to herself. Behind her the hunter looks at poor Shanya and at once feels guilty, ashamed and rude. The End!

Shanya wept silently and as her tears fell onto Snow changes began to happen. Snow began glowing and then he lifted up into the air. Shanya's sobs eased and she glanced at the shocking sight. Snow twirled in the air and then he fell to earth. Shanya dived to catch him. Shanya stared at the white ball of fluffiness in her arms. Then suddenly she felt a beat and then another. So many beats. Shanya nearly shrieked with excitement. But then as she looked at the bundle of fluffiness in her arms, she stared into the eyes that were a beautiful honey brown colour. Shanya yelled with delight and wrapped her arms around Snow. Snow was back!

“THERE SHE IS!” Shanya’s mother screamed, loosening her grip on Shanya’s father. “SHANYA!” Shanya raced to them and was hugged and told off so many times. “Maybe we should go back to Australia” Shanya’s mother said to Shanya’s father. They agreed that they would feel safer if they were in Australia. Snow went with Shanya and her parents liked Snow’s manners and politeness. But Snow, Shanya and her family never went back to the Arctic for the holidays again.

“Do you feel safe staying here for the holidays?” her mother asked. “Definitely” Shanya replied eagerly. “We’ve decided to stay but-” Shanya’s father started to say. “Oh, thank you!” Shanya exclaimed and she ran off to find Snow to tell her the wonderful news.
